Research Highlights

92%

think oil and gas companies should be responsible for the final clean-up of their wells

87%

support the government
requiring oil and gas companies to cover the cost of unpaid property taxes to municipalities

84%

support the government
requiring oil and gas companies to cover the cost of unpaid rents to landowners

There is a public consensus that oil and gas companies should be responsible for 1) the final clean-up of wells; 2) covering unpaid property taxes to municipalities; and 3) covering unpaid rents to landowners. Moreover, this support could be characterized as robust, given that majorities of Albertans strongly support government requiring industry to cover property taxes (71%) or unpaid rents (66%).

The groups most likely to support these policies are a mix of the expected (e.g. those with a university degree) and the somewhat unexpected (e.g. seniors and middle-aged Albertans).

The groups most likely to oppose these policies are characterized less by ideological leaning and more by their precarious socioeconomic situation (e.g., those aged 18 to 24, those without post-secondary education, and those with an annual household income of less than $60,000).

Methodology

Survey questions were administered through the TrendWatch Alberta Omnibus Survey between October 14 to 22, 2025.

TrendWatch Alberta is a monthly omnibus survey of 900 Albertans, ages 18 and over. The margin of error for a probability sample of 900 people is plus or minus 3.3 percentage points, 19 times out of 20 (i.e., at a 95% confidence interval).

Survey Design

- Survey respondents were initially contacted at random by live telephone interviewers and given the option of:
  - answering the survey over telephone at that time,
  - answering over the telephone at a more convenient time, or
  - receiving the link and answering the survey on-line.
- The initial sample list contained approximately 70 per cent cellphones and 30 per cent landlines.
- Interviewers made up to five attempts to reach each phone number in the sample before classifying it as unreachable.

Interviews

- All surveys were conducted by qualified interviewers working out of Trend Research's centralized CATI facility in Edmonton. Field supervisors were always present to ensure accurate interviewing and recording of responses.
- The interviewing staff at Trend receives extensive training on the proper administration of interviews and are closely monitored by supervisors. A minimum of 10 percent of each interviewer's work was unobtrusively monitored for quality control in accordance with the standards set out by the Canadian Research Insights Council (CRIC).

Research Findings

Responsibility for Final Well Clean-Up

An overwhelming majority of Albertans (92%) believe oil and gas companies should be responsible for the final clean-up of their inactive or end-of-life wells. Only five per cent think this should be the responsibility of the public through government subsidies, and three per cent are not sure.

Those particularly likely to think the oil and gas companies operating these wells should be responsible for the final clean-up include:

- Those with a postgraduate education (97%),
- Those who think industry should be required to cover unpaid property taxes to municipalities (95%),
- Those who think industry should be required to cover unpaid rents to landowners (94%), and
- Those with a bachelor's degree (94%).

Those particularly likely to think the public, through government subsidies should be responsible for the final clean up include:

- Those who think industry should NOT be required to cover unpaid property taxes to municipalities (15%),
- Those aged 18 to 24 (10%),
- Those with a high school education or less (10%), and
- Those with an annual household income of less than $60,000 (7%).

There are approximately 260,000 oil and gas wells in Alberta that are near or at the end of their life. Who do you think should be responsible for the final clean-up of these wells? Should it be ...

Industry Covering Unpaid Rents

More than eight in ten Albertans (84%) support government requiring oil and gas companies to cover unpaid land rents owed to landowners, including 66 per cent who strongly support and 18 per cent who somewhat support the measure. Eleven percent oppose this idea (6% strongly, 5% somewhat), and five percent are unsure.

Significant subgroups difference are listed on the next page.

In the last 10 years, the Alberta government has paid approximately $150 million to landowners on behalf of oil and gas companies who have failed to pay their land rents. Would you support or oppose the government requiring industry to cover these unpaid rents to landowners?

Just under nine in ten Albertans (87%) support government requiring oil and gas companies to cover unpaid property taxes owed to municipalities, including 71 percent who strongly support and 16 percent who somewhat support this measure.

Only eight percent oppose this idea (4% strongly, 4% somewhat), and four percent are unsure.

Significant subgroups difference are listed on the next page.

Municipalities in Alberta have reported that approximately $254 million is currently outstanding in unpaid property taxes from oil and gas companies. Would you support or oppose the government requiring industry to cover these unpaid property taxes?

C2. In the last 10 years, the Alberta government has paid approximately $150 million to landowners on behalf of oil and gas companies who have failed to pay their land rents. Would you strongly support, somewhat support, somewhat oppose, or strongly oppose the government requiring industry to cover these unpaid rents to landowners?

C3. Municipalities in Alberta have reported that approximately $254 million is currently outstanding in unpaid property taxes from oil and gas companies. Would you strongly support, somewhat support, somewhat oppose, or strongly oppose the government requiring industry to cover these unpaid property taxes?
